

Hello - We've had a lot going on here at Arlington Valley Farms, so I wanted to provide an update on our current Snack'n Waffle production along with a slight modification to the individual packaging. Regarding production, in order to better supply our significant K-12 demand, we commissioned our second automated Snack'n Waffle line last October which increased our daily throughput 4X. So while our lead time is still currently stretched, we anticipate shrinking it back to normal over the next few months.

In order for our new automated packaging equipment to handle this significant increase in volume, we had to slightly modify our overwrap to a "saddle bag" where there are 2 Snack'n Waffles separated by a perforation, which can be easily separated by tearing along the perforation (please see the illustration below). The rest of the overwrap look and functionality (i.e. ovenable) has not changed and our waffles are still the same great taste!

As always please let us know if you have any questions.

We truly appreciate all your support!

Sincerely,
Eric
